DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 12 and 16 in the reply filed on 02/20/2008 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 12 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over El-Malki (US 6,947,401) in view of Carolan (US 7,027,432).

As to claim 12, El-Malki discloses in figure 3 a transfer device 375 comprising a communication unit configured to transmit/receive packets to/from a mobile terminal 305 via a connection management device 310 arranged in a network and connecting to the mobile terminal, and transfer the packets to a visited position of the mobile terminal (see column 5 lines 1-22; column 12 lines 5-17); a determination unit configured to determine whether a packet received by the communication unit is a packet from a mobile terminal allowed to use packet transfer performed by the transfer device (see column 5 lines 26-47; see also “network policy” at column 10 lines 24-27); and a transfer management unit configured to manage transfer of the packets to the visited position based on a determination result by the determination unit (see column 5 lines 1-22; column 12 lines 5-17). El-Malki fails to disclose a terminal information storage unit configured to store terminal information unique to the mobile terminal allowed to use the packet transfer; wherein the determination unit determines whether the packet received by the communication unit is a packet from a mobile terminal allowed to use packet transfer performed by the transfer device based on whether information concerning the mobile terminal included in the packet received by the communication unit coincides with the terminal information stored in the terminal information storage unit. Carolan discloses a transfer device (see the router 130 in figure 1) comprising a terminal information storage unit configured to store terminal information unique to the mobile terminal allowed to use the packet transfer; wherein the determination unit determines whether the packet received by the communication unit is a packet from a mobile terminal allowed to use packet transfer performed by the transfer device based on whether information concerning the mobile terminal included in the packet received by the communication unit coincides with the terminal information stored in the terminal information storage unit (see column 4 line 31 to column 5 line 2). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the above teaching of Carolan to El-Malki, in order to ensure packets from a network access device will go to the appropriate service network (as suggested by Carolan at column 4 lines 38-48).

As to claim 16, it is rejected for similar reasons as set forth in claim 12 above.
